Pediatrics in Traditional Chinese Medicine with Tony Reid

Tony presents an introduction to the unique approach to children's disorders found in Traditional Chinese Medicine. Children have many special physiological and psychological feature, which determine the way in which illness manifests; they are not to be regarded as 'miniature adults'. This presentation highlights the specific physiological feature of children along with their unique diagnostic indicators. Although Traditional Chinese pediatrics developed with the paradigm of TCM, you will find that the underlying principles are readily applicable to other modalities.
